Local Red Cross Receives Contribution from First National Bank Employees
Susquehanna and Wyoming County Chapters Benefit

Montrose, PA – November 7, 2011 - Stephen McHenry, Executive Director of the Susquehanna and Wyoming Chapters of the American Red Cross, accepts a check for $756 from Tracy Zeller, Manager of First National Bank of Pennsylvania's Montrose Branch. Local employees of First National Bank raised the funds specifically to assist with continued flood relief efforts across the region. Zeller notes, "First National Bank is a community bank, and we want to be involved in efforts that impact our local community. The American Red Cross does so much on behalf of local residents and businesses, and this is one way we can give back to our neighbors."

The contribution is just one of many flood relief efforts spearheaded by First National Bank. Employees also coordinated a regional collection of flood clean up supplies, and they have initiated several community-focused donations to thank local organizations who helped create a "neighbor helping neighbor" response.
